

VICTOR

Born 1806 in Lyons | Idealistic | Determined

Determined idealist

A truly revolutionary soul, Victor won't let a chance to rebel go unused. His strong ideals coupled with his interest in politics and society make him a sore spot for any government, particularly for his homeland France.

Inner Conflict

Though rebellious, Victor appreciates norms such as having a family and helping people in need honorable. Coupled with his blurred sexuality, he is sometimes at a loss and faces inner conflict. His strong determination also gives him almost unstoppable anger against those things he opposes.

Unique Character Traits

Despite his strong opinions against the establishment, honor plays an important role in his social life. He doesn't just want to change governing politics because he's against them, but because he's for a good society. He knows what ideals he believes should govern life as a whole, and this defines him.

He appears in ... Spoiler alert

A Half Flower, where he and his best friend Balzac grow up together and discover they must go separate ways.
